Kane-Colbey.

The marriage of Miss Lillian N. Colbey of Danvers and William H. Kane of Island Pond, Vt., was held at the church of the Annunciation, Monday evening, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Crochet. The maid of honor was Miss Marguerite Sullivan. The best man, a brother of the groom, was Thomas Kane of Island Pond, Vt. A reception followed at the home of the bride, 6 Butler avenue. The returning party was met by two little flower girls, Miss Dorothy Colbey and Miss Elen Winchester, who scattered daisies to the beautiful daisy arch where the bridal party were met by Mrs. Colbey who assisted in receiving. The ushers were Arthur Colbey, a brother of the bride, and two cousins, Bertram and Leland Kent of Cliftondale.

Miss Florence Sullivan assisted at the punch bowl. Miss Marguerite O'Brien in the gift room. Miss Ruth Colbey attended the guest book. The pretty living room was very dainty in its decoration of all green and white.

American beauty roses were used in the dining room. Mrs. Brooks of Peabody catered.

Miss Colbey's dress was satin charmeuse and silk shadow lace, pearl trimming. Her bouquet was bride roses. Her veil was caught up with lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor wore pale blue silk and lace and carried pink roses. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a pearl and diamond pendant and chain. The groom's gift to the best man was a pearl stick pin.

After a wedding trip to New York and Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Kane will make their home at Island Pond, Vt., where Mr. Kane is in business.

Right Spending.

Fear to spend what we have, nobly and on fit objects, is a mean kind of thing; but fear to squander and to waste is wholesome and righteous. Economy is not miserliness; and there is a dignity about moderation which is wanting to excess.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

A novel feature of the meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, was its mixed audience, there being just as many women as men, forty in all. C. M. Harding, general secretary at East Deering, Me., spoke on the recent International Y. M. C. A. Convention at Cleveland, Ohio. He reported briefly some of the most important addresses, very impressively stating their vital points and vividly portrayed the personality of the speakers. He spoke earnestly of the opportunities of the Y. M. C. A., in the war stricken countries, how they were being met, and revealed the great responsibility and the need of men willing to sacrifice for others. His address was of an unusual style of convention report, and intensely interesting and instructive to all who heard him. The young people of the churches assisted in the singing.
